BMAfunders

The screenshot shows the homepage of BMAfunders.org. At the top left is the logo 'BMAfunders.org'. To its right are navigation links: 'Why BMA?', 'Funding Map', 'In the Field', 'Resources', and 'Executives' Alliance'. On the far right of the top bar are social media icons for Twitter, Facebook, LinkedIn, and RSS, and a search bar with a magnifying glass icon.

The main banner features a report cover on the left titled 'QUANTIFYING HOPE: PHILANTHROPIC SUPPORT FOR BLACK MEN AND BOYS 2019'. The cover includes logos for 'OPEN SOCIETY FOUNDATIONS', 'CBMA', and 'FOUNDATION CENTER', and the website 'BMAfunders.org'. The background of the banner is a teal color with a bar chart and three circular icons: a graduation cap, a group of people, and a megaphone. The text on the right reads 'Quantifying Hope' in large white font, followed by 'New research on philanthropic support for Black men and boys' in a smaller white font. Below this is an orange 'Read More' button. Navigation arrows (left and right) are visible on the left and right sides of the banner, and a series of four dots at the bottom right indicates the current slide position.

Collection of Reports on Issues Affecting U.S. Military/Veterans

Repository of Resources

Powered by the
FOUNDATION CENTER

This collection brings together valuable insights from nonprofit organizations, foundations, and government agencies who are working directly with veterans in communities across the country.

These case studies, evaluations, white papers, and toolkits provide us with a deeper understanding of the problems many veterans and their families face but also of the possible solutions we might build to address these very real challenges.

The collection is broken into five key areas where veterans are facing obstacles and where nonprofits and foundations have been focusing their efforts.

In recent years many school districts have had to restructure their arts curriculums to meet the growing emphasis on standards that is central to most school reform, all while managing shrinking resources and support for arts education. This unique collection of reports, case studies, evaluations and white papers focuses on the potential benefits of arts education for students and communities alike, as well as gives examples of creative ways school districts are handling their constraints. This compendium of research is an update to a collection that appeared a few years ago, and includes a mix of old and new research that is meant to assist educators, policymakers, grantmakers and other stakeholders by providing models, examples, and suggestions to inform the creation of a thriving arts education program. Electronic Reporting Program

What is Electronic Reporting?

As the art and science of grantmaking becomes more strategic and funders tackle increasingly complex social challenges, our ability to work effectively requires timely and accurate data.

Whether it's answering tough questions about our impact, exploring opportunities to collaborate or collectively responding to a specific issue, we must create the information infrastructure that allows us to understand our work in a wider context.

Foundation Center's Electronic Reporting Program Standard (eReporting) enables grantmakers around the world to quickly and easily share useful grants data with the field, via either the eGrant or hGrant Reporting formats.

Check to see if your grants management system provides an easy export of your grants data and which format they support.

Why Become an eReporter?

Your participation helps build an invaluable resource that benefits not only grantmakers, but the social sector as a whole. Working together, this network of knowledge:

- Provides the richest, most detailed, descriptive, and accurate grants data available anywhere
- Encourages grantmakers to be more open and transparent by making near real-time information about their grants more readily available
- Gives funders control over what, when and how they communicate about their work
- Shares details about a funder's most current grants to a wider audience through Foundation Center's various research reports, online resources, and licensed data sets
- Fosters more strategic decision-making, based on data that's complete and current
- Makes it easier for nonprofits to find grants information, while improving the quality of grant applications for foundations
- Helps to identify gaps, natural collaborators and strategic investment points by centralizing the information at Foundation Center

Doing Good, Done Better

"Get on the Map" is an exciting new data-sharing campaign dedicated to improving the quality, timeliness, and availability of rich information — for and about funders across the nation.

It is a partnership between the Forum for Regional Associations, Foundation Center and these participating Regionals:

- Associated Grant Makers
- Connecticut Council for Philanthropy
- Council of New Jersey Grantmakers
- Donors Forum (Illinois)
- Donors Forum of Wisconsin
- Florida Philanthropic Network
- Grantmakers of Oregon and SW Washington
- Grantmakers of Western Pennsylvania
- Indiana Philanthropy Alliance
